Bangkok is, without a doubt, the home of logistics networking. It is a realization that I have come to terms with over the years. So in a broad manner of speaking, this is a homecoming, not simply for us all, but for the freight forwarding industry. We hope that the members of our group will remain for the ride and that our business relations, contacts and colleagues will be a large part of the stability that we all need. I strongly feel that your coming to Bangkok to reconnect is a part of what we all need now.

Familiarity. Friendship. Building commerce for the benefit of everyone wherever they may be in the world. So take advantage of this time and let's build a strong chain of allies. We need to see each other through this time we are going through. And with that I thank you from the bottom of my heart for making the trip.

Situated in the central plains of Thailand, on the Chao Phraya River near the Gulf of Thailand, Bangkok is Thailand's administrative, economic, and cultural centre, as well as a major commercial and transportation hub for South-east Asia.

You need not travel far in Bangkok to find the trappings of modern civilization give way to historical treasures and traditional culture and heritage. A rich history, fabulous shopping, colorful night life, sumptuous food and plenty of fun. Although Bangkok, one of the largest cities in the world is crowded and fast paced, you can easily find the traditional and spiritual side at one of the many ancient temples. The city has 400 glittering Buddhist temples of great beauty, magnificent palaces, classical dance performances, numerous shopping

One visit to Bangkok is seldom enough. It is a city that will whet the appetite of those with an inquisitive nature and a thirst for adventure. There are unending contrasts around every corner, Bangkok is truly unique. It is not hard to get around by using the BTS Skytrain, the MRT Metro (subway, or underground), the Chao Phraya Express Boats (river buses), and the ubiquitous colorful taxis.
